Candidates Speak at First League Meeting

Season Opened at Wildwood Inn—Chairman Hardy Explains Ballot Questions—Study Groups Plan Active Season

On Tuesday the League of Women Voters held its first meeting of the year at the Wildwood Inn. After a delicious luncheon, a very fine program of speakers was presented. Miss Helen Chickering, President, welcomed both the old and new members cordially, and then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Alan Blackmer, chairman of the committee on Government and its Operation. Mr. Romeo David, Republican Candidate for Representative, spoke first. He spoke of the needless waste and extravagance in public expenditure and the necessity for just men of special training along governmental and legal lines in public offices.

Mr. Charles McAree, Democratic Candidate for Senator, spoke very forcibly about the progress in the theory of taxation. He gave a short resume of taxation from the time of the French Revolution to its modern tendencies. He feels that the burden of taxation should not fall on the man who is least able to pay it, but that we should have a heavily graded progressive income tax, and a progressive inheritance tax. There is an urgent need for greater taxation he said, because of the necessity for unemployment insurance and old-age pensions.

Mr. J. Bradford Davis, Republican candidate for state senator, was the third speaker. He gave statistics showing the proportion of taxes distributed in Massachusetts, enumerating the activities which absorb state taxes, and giving the amount of money expended for general purposes. His talk emphasized that due to the uncertainty of property values, inheritance and income taxes would not bring in sufficient revenue, and therefore a sales tax is necessary. This is particularly just as the distribution of taxes should be guided by the ways in which the money is to be expended.

After these three informative and interesting speeches, Mr. Hardy explained the three questions which are to come up on the November ballot in the form of referendums.

The committee chairmen then explained the work planned for the study groups, which will follow at intervals during the year. Mrs. Alan Blackmer is chairman of Government and Its Operation; Mrs. Harold Rafton, chairman of Government and Education; Mrs. Charles La Morte, chairman of Government and Child Labor. Mrs. A. Graham Baldwin, chairman of Government and International Cooperation, has already had two meetings with a very fine and enthusiastic group, with members from Andover, Phillips Academy, Abbot Academy, and Lowell.

Services Held for Late Town Official

Andrew McTernen, Thirty-five Years in Official Positions Here, Laid at Rest in Spring Grove Cemetery after South Church Services

Final tribute was impressively paid the late Andrew McTernen, long a familiar figure in local public life, Saturday afternoon when funeral services were held at the South church. Mr. McTernen, thirty-five years a public official here, died Wednesday, October 10, only a few short months following his retirement from official life.

A large number of townspeople who had come to know and respect Mr. McTernen during his life here were present at the funeral and at the Spring Grove cemetery where the body was interred after the trip over roads which Mr. McTernen had known so well. Rev. Frederick B. Noss officiated at the funeral services, and Joseph N. Ashton played selections on the organ.

The bearers were: Frank H. Hardy, chairman of the board of selectmen of Andover; William B. Cheever, tax collector; Fred E. Cheever, Stephen Gilliard, Frank E. Dodge and Dr. Albert E. Hulme.

The ushers in the church were Arthur W. Bassett and Harry Anderson.

Thaxter Eaton, town treasurer, paid the following tribute to the late Mr. McTernen this week:

"Mr. McTernen was a very painstaking and conscientious public official who devoted a great deal more time than he was paid for to town affairs. Always anxious to be of service, he was able to look back with considerable satisfaction to what he had been able to accomplish for the town and for the Tyer Rubber company during his superintendency there. Although of a kind and friendly disposition, and seldom, if ever, seeking a fight, he yet had the courage of his convictions, as evidenced by his refusal to sign liquor licenses last year. He will be much missed and long remembered by a host of friends and acquaintances."

To Form Religious Educational Council

This evening a meeting will be held in the Baptist church for the purpose of organizing a Council of Religious Education for the churches of Andover and Ballardvale.

Supper will be served at 6.30 by the members of the World Wide Guild. The Rev. Mr. Ewing will offer prayer. After supper a community song service will be led by Robert V. Deyermond.

A worship service will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Frederick A. Wilson.

The speaker of the evening will be the Rev. Dr. Ernest A. Miller, president of the Lawrence Council of Religious Education.

There will be an election of officers, and transaction of other business. It is expected that a large group of teachers and officers of the various church schools will be in attendance at the meeting.

Elected to Executive Committee

Miss Bertha Hilton, '32, was elected to the executive committee of the Punchard Alumni association at a meeting Tuesday evening. Miss Hilton will fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. William V. Emmons, formerly Miss Marjorie R. West, who is now living in Boston.

The monthly meetings will be held on the third Tuesday evening of each month.

Surgeon General Inspects C. C. C.

On a recent tour of inspection of the sanitation, medical facilities and the general welfare of the Civilian Conservation Corps of the East, Surgeon General Patterson, also holding the rank of Major General of the U. S., selected the 110th Co. in this town, and the 167th Co. in North Reading as the only two companies he wished to inspect while in the East. Accompanying the Major General were Colonel Foreman, and Lieut. Colonel Adelot, both of Fort Devens.

The selection of these two companies was probably due to the fine record set when only a short time ago the local company in Andover was chosen the "Model Company" in the Educational Department, while the neighboring unit was selected as the best in the district and close to the best in the whole area.

Sewing Machines, Clothing Needed

Anyone who has a sewing machine which can be loaned to the E.R.A. is asked to telephone 880 and they will be called for.

Clothing is also needed by the E.R.A. Shoes, especially working shoes, are in great demand. These may be left at the town house.

Necessary to Have All Licenses or None

Alcoholic Beverages Commission Member States that Andover if It Wishes Package Stores Must Also Allow Restaurant Licenses

There is no way in which the town of Andover can continue licenses for package stores without continuing them for restaurants, it was learned this week from the Alcoholic Beverages Commission. Frank H. Hardy, chairman of the board of selectmen, was given this opinion in a talk with a member of the A.B.C. Wednesday. Mr. Hardy has written the commission for confirmation of the opinion, but no answer has been given as yet. The verbal ruling means that the town must remain just as it is now or dispense with license entirely.

Mr. Hardy made the inquiry as the result of a question put to him at a meeting of the League of Women Voters Tuesday. The selectman at the request of the League was present to explain the questions appearing on the ballot at the coming election.

There will be two questions on the ballot dealing with liquor. The first deals with licenses for all alcoholic beverages, including hard liquors; the second is limited to wines, beer and other malt beverages. Both were approved at the March election. The selectmen, however, decided not to give hard liquor licenses to restaurants, so that at present the package stores are licensed under the first (hard liquor) question and the restaurants under the second (wines and beer) question.

Were the town to vote "Yes" on question one, and "No" on question two it does not mean that restaurants would go out and package stores stay. While the selectmen have refused to license restaurants under the hard liquor question, the A.B.C. would undoubtedly force them to grant such licenses if the second question were defeated.

The various possibilities under the two questions, as far as Andover is concerned, would be: (1) If the town votes "Yes" on both questions, the present situation will continue. (2) If the town votes "No" on the first (hard liquor) question and "Yes" on the second (beer and wine) question, no hard liquor could be sold, and the package stores would go out, with the restaurants remaining under the same licenses as at present; (3) if the town votes "Yes" on the hard liquor question and "No" on the second, the present situation would continue, with the possibility of the restaurants having hard liquor licenses; (4) if the town votes "No" on both questions, no liquor could be sold here legally.

Local Option Trapping Question

Mr. Hardy also explained the very involved question which will appear as question number one on the ballot. It seeks to amend "The Humane Trapping Act," which was adopted at a 1930 referendum by a majority of 327,000, the largest ever given a ballot question up to that time.

"The Humane Trapping Act" of 1930 outlawed the use of the steel-jawed trap, except near buildings and on cultivated lands as a protection against so-called "vermin." The proposed amendment would allow any town or city, through a municipal election, to go back to the use of the steel-jawed trap; in other words it permits local option on the question.

If the state votes "Yes" on the trapping question, it would mean that any town or city could allow the use of such inhumane traps if it so voted at a municipal election or town meeting; it would also allow the Commissioner of Conservation to suspend the 1930 act. Were the state to vote "No" on the question, it would mean that that Humane

Abbot Tavern to Be Open Monday

The annual meeting of the Andover Historical society will be held at the once-famous Deacon Isaac Abbot tavern, 70 Elm street, at eight o'clock next Monday evening, when Mr. William A. Trow will relate something of the history of the ancient inn and its association with the Abbot family.

The house will be opened to the public in the afternoon from 2.30 until 4.30 and because of its antiquity, its typical architecture and its fame as one of the many roofs under which President Washington was entertained, it is well worth a visit.

Some unusual engravings of Washington will be displayed with other items of local interest, and the apartment so long the home of Miss Florence M. Locke, an active member of the society will be used for the formalities, while Mr. and Mrs. James T. French will open the doors of their apartment and share in the courtesies of the afternoon and evening.

Members of neighboring historical societies will be welcomed and they are asked to make such affiliations known to their hostess and to mention particularly any close or distant relationship to the Abbot clan.

It should be again mentioned that all who belong to the Abbot family could be of real service if they care to offer items of genealogical interest.

Officers and members of the local society will act as hosts and hostesses; others will be at the tea tables and a group of young matrons will serve.

Priscilla, Deacon Isaac Abbot's daughter, who mended President Washington's riding-glove, earning thereby that historic kiss, continued her life of usefulness up to the age of fifty-nine years. Her well-worn Bible bears the following tribute:

Priscilla Abbot born June 1st 1770
Married to John Kneeland, Esq.
by The Rev. Justin Edwards
June 6th 1820
after a few days Sickness with lung fever on Wednesday morning Febry 17th 1830

The "modern Priscilla" will be present we hope, and will have in her keeping this precious volume of her historic ancestor.

Historical Home Open

The Andover Historical house at 97 Main street will also be opened so that those who have guests for the afternoon may show them another of Andover's early houses. Once the home of Deacon Amos Blanchard, who built it in 1819, it remains an excellent example of Georgian architecture, typical with its long ells, its sheds, its barn, orchard and garden — and friendly welcome.

Handling Traffic Better

The substitution of busses for electric cars here has brought with it several problems and also several opportunities to make distinct improvements in handling traffic. The local police department has already taken advantage of one of these opportunities by moving the blinker in Andover square over onto the now unused car tracks, thus giving northbound Main street traffic a more direct line of travel than was possible when the blinker had to be placed at one side of the tracks.

The frequent passing of busses down Main street and along Chestnut street has again called attention to the rather flagrant violations of parking rules here. Over a year ago the selectmen went to much trouble and considerable expense to draw up and enact a set of parking rules which save for a brief period of police activity last spring have not been enforced to any great extent. The situation seems particularly bad on Saturday mornings when there is so much double parking that the open lane down the middle of the street is very narrow. With busses passing through the street or stopping to discharge or take on passengers, the trouble will be very much intensified.

The solution will lie only in strict enforcement of the parking rules, especially as regards double parking. It is a dangerous practice, and a very inconvenient one for those who are parking legitimately close to the curbing. Some restrictions should be drawn up for parking on Chestnut street, especially near the treadle which at times is inaccessible because of double parking. Another improvement would be the marking off of safety zones in the square where busses could stop next to the curb for letting off or picking up their passengers.

But the biggest improvement of all, something which the people of Andover have desired for a long time, would be the moving of the traffic policeman's stand to a point farther out in the square where it might be of some use in guiding traffic. At present it stands almost uselessly on Main street at the southern entrance to the square, whereas the most dangerous traffic comes from Elm, High, Essex and Central streets, all uncontrolled now. The reason for the present location of the stand has been always attributed to the necessity of having it placed beyond the end of the car line. With the car line gone this necessity, which was doubtful at best, has been removed, and now the stand should go on a journey out where it belongs. Andover square is a bad place from a traffic viewpoint, but it is not being bettered by having an officer in the best part of it and none in the rest of it.

A thorough study of the square should be made, and then the traffic there could be handled as it should be handled.

Andrew McTernen

When Andrew McTernen passed away last Wednesday afternoon, it must have been with that peace of mind which comes with knowing that one's work has been well done. A career of thirty-five years in public service is indeed an impressive one, but the outstanding fact about Mr. McTernen's public life was not so much that it was long as that he governed his every action by his feelings as to what was right and wrong.

In public service it is easy to make friends by granting favors, easy to make enemies by refusing favors. The really worthwhile attitude to take is to forget how many enemies you are making, how many votes you are losing, and to stick to what you think is for the best interests of the community which you are serving. That was the attitude which was the basis of everything Mr. McTernen did. It does lose votes, but it gives you a feeling worth far more than millions of votes, a feeling of satisfaction at the knowledge that you did what you thought was best, regardless of consequences to yourself.

Mr. McTernen's efforts were directed during his term of office as a selectman at making Andover a better town, worthy of the statement of Phillips Brooks which has appeared on the front page of the Townsman since its establishment nearly half a century ago. He did his best, at times in the face of a public opinion which unknowingly was allowing things to happen which have injured Andover. The town's faith in Mr. McTernen's judgment, as evidenced by his frequent re-elections to public office, certainly has been proved justifiable.

It's easy to drift with the crowd, but it takes a man to hold out for what he thinks is right, even if it does mean bucking public opinion. Such a man was Andrew McTernen, and Andover is mighty proud that it had a man of his stamp taking such an important part in guiding its dentinies for the past thirty-five years.

Haven't we a wonderfully generous Government. It is paying some of us for not doing this and not doing that. I wonder if it won't pay me for not working so that someone else can have my job.

Had we tried as hard under prohibition to suppress the illegal liquor traffic as we are now maybe prohibition would have been a success. Anyway vote no in Andover next November.

Why should Andover waste money on "One Hour" parking signs, printing "Rules and Orders Regulating Traffic," and the traffic lights at Main and Chestnut streets?

The careful driver doesn't need them. The careless driver pays no attention to them.

The other evening three drivers passed the red light in about as many minutes.

Many a day trucks and cars are parked for two, three or more hours directly under "one hour" parking signs.

I once heard a man say a friend of his remarked, "rules are made to have something to break."

That fits Andover.

Lawrence has again wiggled Andover into the "Community Chest." I am, and always have been, opposed to this town joining with Lawrence in this chest idea. It is very misleading to many of our citizens.

If you have any doubt in your own mind as to how you should vote on the liquor question next month, just observe some of our Andover drunks which you won't have to look very long to find. Shame on us for ever voting yes.

The question of married women in business seems to be coming more into the limelight, as it should.

"Married women entitled to hold business jobs. Husband's salary has nothing to do with the matter," says Mrs. Geline Bowman. Evidently Andover and Uncle Sam feel the same way.

On one side of me lives a man and his wife. Each holding down a good position paying them over $4,000 a year. On the other side of me lives a woman, equally competent, and her mother cannot get a job. One family has two large loaves. The other none. Is that fair? I don't think so.

An excellent editorial in a Boston paper, closed as follows:

About the best conclusion that can be arrived at is that no suitably-supported married woman should be given a job so long as there is available an equally competent person to whom the job would be the only means of support.

Not to Receive License

No liquor license will be granted Paul Ward for the restaurant he intends to open on Essex street. The law allows only one license for one person, and Mr. Ward already has a license for his restaurant at Haggetts pond.

FRENCH

In Andover on Sunday, October 14, Mrs. Fannie E. French passed away in her 96th year. Mrs. French was born in Holden, Mass., and was a graduate of the Bridgewater State Normal School. She was a successful teacher in Hillside Smeinary, Montclair, N. J. and in the West Newton English and Classical School, West Newton, Mass. She married Rev. George H. French, a graduate of Phillips Andover, Dartmouth College, and the Andover Theological Seminary who held pastorates in Johnson and Ludlow, Vermont, and Charlestown, Meriden and West Moreland, N. H.

Mrs. French was a woman of superior intellect of a deeply religious nature, keenly interested in every phase of church work, and a vital help to her husband in his ministry. The influence which she exerted is still remembered in the communities in which she lived.

After the death of her husband in 1906, Mrs. French had lived in Worcester, Newton Centre, and Andover. Services were held at her late residence on Punchard avenue and interment was in Westmoreland, N. H. She is survived by her son, George F. French of the faculty of Phillips Academy.

Andover residents of several years ago will remember John Meldrum, whose body was laid to rest in Spring Grove cemetery last Saturday afternoon with a committal service by Rev. Alfred C. Church.

In Memoriam

ANDREW B. McTERNEN

A Personal Tribute

My relations with Mr. McTernen during the last few years have been peculiarly intimate. His visits to our home were frequent and socially enjoyable.

Others who have known him longer and have been closely associated with him in public office have already paid him tribute.

My wish here is to bear witness to a quality in his character that has endeared him to me and which, I am sure, will have a lasting influence upon all who knew him, I refer to his unflinching loyalty to his sense of right. Once convinced he was right, no subtlety of argument, no outside pressure, no personal emolument, no love of political power, not even the claims of friendship could budge him one inch from his chosen objective. Once conscience uttered its mandate Mr. McTernen utterly refused to adjust himself to the importunity of his fellow men, for character building was his chief concern.

A striking example of his fidelity to this inner voice was recently shown when he refused, as Selectman, to sanction the issuance of licenses for the sale of liquor in our town. It was the time when his re-election to office was soon to be decided by the voters. It was also the time when popular feeling, like a flood from a broken dam, became well-nigh uncontrollable sweeping onward heedless of consequences. By yielding his conviction touching this traffic Mr. McTernen could have easily captured the liquor vote while, at the same time, retaining his loyal supporters. Here was an acid test and right royally did he meet it!

It is always hard to go down to defeat, hard to brace up against opposition, hard to withstand obloquy and peculiarly hard to refuse the appeal of a friend.

All this Mr. McTernen fully realized as I can personally vouch for. Yet in the teeth of possible defeat, in the face of misunderstanding and even personal animosity, Mr. McTernen never wavered, never straddled, never played pettifog with his conscience nor shrunk into cowardly silence.

His sense of right was rock-ribbed, immovable as our New England hills.

It is this adamantine quality of his character that stands out in boldest relief whenever I call to mind my honored friend.

Candidates Speak at First League Meeting

Mrs. R. N. C. Barnes, chairman of Government and Economic Welfare, has announced the date for the beginning of her study group. The first meeting will be on Wednesday, October 24, at the School of Politics in Cambridge, as the subject of the afternoon session is the Massachusetts Tax System. The second meeting will be held on Monday, October 29, at her home, Sunset Rock road, at 2:30. The National League of Women Voters at their convention in Boston last spring, took a definite stand on the subject of taxation and pledged themselves to study the problem for two years. The League feels that with the increase in the tax expenditure it is now imperative to change our present system to insure a more equitable distribution of the tax burden. This subject is not only of interest but of importance to everyone, and it is hoped that many League members will take this opportunity to discuss together this tax problem in which each one of us shares. Mrs. Barnes will be glad to have anyone who is interested call her by telephone.

Necessary to Have All Licenses or None

Trapping Act of 1930 would continue in force.

A "Yes" vote would not necessarily mean that the steel traps would be used in Andover, unless the Commissioner of Conservation so decided. It would mean that the town itself could decide whether it wished to allow steel traps or not.

Betting Questions

The third question is the easiest to understand. It is split into two parts, the first asking whether pari-mutuel betting should be allowed on licensed horse races in this county, and the second asking the same about licensed dog races. A "Yes" vote on either by the county would mean that the pari-mutuels would be permitted in the county.

Marriage Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Campbell of North Main street announce the marriage of their daughter Sarah to Otto Busch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Busch of Hawthorne, N. J. The couple will make their home in Hawthorne where Mr. Busch is employed as a textile designer.

LEGAL NOTICES

TOWN OF ANDOVER

Office of the
BOARD OF SELECTMEN
Andover, Mass.

You are hereby required on or before December 1, 1934 to destroy the gypsy and brown tail moths on your property in this town.

This notification is in accordance with Chapter 132, General Laws, which requires cities and towns to destroy the eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests of the gypsy and brown tail moths under heavy penalty for failure to comply with the provisions of the law.

If a property owner fails to destroy such eggs, caterpillars, pupae and nests, then the city or town is required to destroy the same, and the cost of the work, in whole or in part, according to the value of the land, is assessed upon and becomes a lien on the land. (Section 18, Chapter 132, General Laws, on reverse.)

The Selectmen ask owners and tenants to co-operate with the town in its work on highways and other public grounds by doing effective work on their premises. Citizens who have cleaned their premises of the moths, but find their trees endangered by the neglect of owners of adjoining estates should make complaint to the Selectmen. The infestation of a residential neighborhood by the neglect of a few will not be tolerated.

The eggs of the gypsy moth should be destroyed at once with creosote. They should never be scraped off the object on which they are laid. Careful search should be made for gypsy moth egg clusters, not only on trees, but also on house walls, stone walls, fences and in rubbish heaps, etc. Trees in which cavities occur and which it is not desirable to cut should have the cavities tinned or cemented. This is important. The present and future cost of combating this insect can be greatly reduced by cutting and burning worthless brush, hollow trees, etc. A few trees well-cared for are more valuable to the property owner and the community than a large number of neglected trees.

The nests of the brown tail moth should be cut from the trees, carefully collected and burned in a stove or furnace.

Full instructions as to the best methods of work against the moths may be obtained from the Local Superintendent, Ralph T. Berry, or from the State Forester, Room 519, State House, Boston, Mass.

Work done by contractors should be inspected and approved by Local Superintendent before payment for the same is made.

Indian Exhibition at Local Gallery

The first general exhibition in the east of the work of the Indian school at Santa Fe, New Mexico, has just been opened at the Addison Gallery of Art at Phillips academy. Two galleries an the upper floor have been devoted to this interesting exhibit of the artistic efforts of young Indians who range in age between thirteen and seventeen

The exhibit will attract many different types of people, for various reasons. First of all, the work is far ahead of the average work for 13 to 17 year old "paleface" children. And then the paintings are not the usual subjects seen in art galleries. They represent much of the Indian lore which is so fascinating to the newer Americans. Water colors, oils and the unusual "earth colors" are included.

Prof. Warren K. Moorehead has the following to say about the school:

"The Department of Interior, United States Indian Service, many years ago established an Indian School at Santa Fe, New Mexico. Through its hundreds of graduates the school has exerted an influence for good among Pueblo, Navajo, and other Indian tribes. Nearly twenty years ago, Mr. C. E. Faris was appointed superintendent, and, fortunately for the Indians, has remained in charge. Mr. Faris is considered one of the best superintendents in our Indian Service. He is sympathetic in his attitude toward Indians and very popular among Whites and Indians alike.

"Some fifteen years ago, he realized that the Southwest Indians possessed a real art, expressing it in their ceramics, weaving and silverware. Instead of instructing the Indian children in white man's art, as was a prevailing custom in Indian schools, he encouraged boys and girls to make their own designs. Several art teachers employed by him acted in advisory capacity and did not try to influence or change native concept. As the result of Mr. Faris's labors, together with those of the National Association of Indian Affairs and the Laboratory of Anthropology at Santa Fe, Indian art, encouraged, has flourished. The present exhibition is evidence of this."

Douglas S. Byers of the gallery staff states:

"In this exhibit there are examples of the work of students in an art course composed of Indian children representing the various Pueblo groups of inhabiting the villages of the Southwest and Indian children from the wandering Navajo and the dispossessed Sioux and Cherokee.

"Before the coming of outside influences, none of these people produced works of art merely for their enjoyment.

"Among some of the tribes there was no realistic art. Geometric designs were applied to pottery, hide or wood.

"The Pueblos knew realistic art but only in a limited way. Small dolls made from cedar wood were carved and painted to represent supernatural beings called Katchinas and were utilized for a time in the course of certain ceremonies. Pottery designs were in the realistic manner, although many of the elements soon became highly conventionalized and no longer easily recognized for their original forms.

"Neither of these two concepts of art has any narrative element. The narrative element may have reached the Pueblo Indians as a result of contact with certain Plains Indians who in former times kept a pictographic record of the outstanding events in each year. The transfer of the narrative element to Pueblo art has been accomplished only in the last few years, permitting the construction of a picture which represents an act, rather than the simple decoration of a pot or the carving of a doll which tells no story.

"The Navajo used paintings on the clean-swept floor of a medicine lodge as part of their healing ceremonies. The secret of the designs was known in former times only to the medicine men who traced them on the ground with finely ground earths of various colors.

"The Pueblo child has experienced some forms of realistic art in his daily life. The children of the Navajo, Sioux, Cherokee and Wasatch have no such background, and as a result are more readily influenced by the idiom of the white man. Although using his techniques they often express Indian ideas.

"The grouping of the pictures by the name of the artist makes the difference in tribal background more apparent."

CONCERNING THE YOUNG

DEAR Mrs. Post: Should a young girl of fifteen pay a party call after dining with strangers, although the hostess' daughter is a schoolmate of hers? And should she leave a visiting card? After such an invitation, is there anything a girl of this age can possibly do to return the invitation?

Answer: It would be polite to go to see them, yes. Whether to leave a card or not depends upon the custom of your community. If all young girls have cards, then yes. Otherwise, always best to do as others of your neighborhood do. Return this invitation by inviting your schoolmate to your house or to the movies or to whatever you can that you think would amuse her.

My dear Mrs. Post: I am going to college this fall and would like to know now what is expected of a boy when he invites a girl from out of town to any of the house-parties or dances at school. What share of her expenses is expected from him?

Answer: He should meet her at the station and take her to wherever she is to stay; send her a few flowers, perhaps, to wear at the dance; and he should make whatever agreeable engagements for her that he can. But he does not pay her railroad or her hotel bill—nor that of her chaperon.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a divorcee. How should my daughter introduce her father's wife to strangers? She stays with them sometimes because we both have agreed that she should not be deprived of either her mother or father.

Answer: As her "stepmother."

My dear Mrs. Post: When two boys and a girl (or perhaps two girls and a boy is more usual) walk or go to the movies together, or ride in a car, should the odd person sit between the other two, or is there some other way in better taste?

Answer: When they walk, the girls together, the boy on the curb side of the pavement. In a car or at the movies the boy sits next to the girl whose especial friend he is. If he knows both equally well then he sits wherever there is place—next to one or the other, or he can perfectly well sit between them. On the street a man is not supposed to be sandwiched, because he must walk on the curb side of the street. At present this rule is being recognized as rather senseless.

Problems

"Do you understand these money problems?"

"Not exactly," answered Senator Sorghum. "But I regard them as of great value. They are something to occupy people's minds with when they find they have more spare time than they know what to do with."

Proclaims Public Library Week

Governor Ely has issued a proclamation setting apart next week as Free Public Library Week. The proclamation, of particular interest in Andover because of our fine library, follows:

"The free public libraries of Massachusetts are and should always continue to be among our finest resources for recreation and instruction.

"In the earliest days of the Colonies academic libraries were assembled in this region; before the establishment of our Nation proprietary libraries were numerous in our cities; for now nearly ninety years there have been free public libraries in our Commonwealth. Today no town or city of Massachusetts is without a free public library supported by all the citizens and for the use of all.

"There are such institutions to the number of four hundred and eleven, many of these with branches, in our three hundred and fifty-five towns and cities.

"From these institutions during the year past our citizens borrowed some thirty-three million books.

"In and through these institutions children were set upon the pathway to reading; seekers for entertainment were satisfied; seekers for knowledge were aided; important questions without number were asked and answered.

"Our free public libraries are a precious possession with which we should all be familiar. That we may know them better and thereby appreciate them more fully, I hereby designate and set apart the week beginning the twenty-first day of October and ending the twenty-seventh day of October as FREE PUBLIC LIBRARY WEEK.

"I urge all citizens to visit their libraries during this period for the purpose of acquainting themselves more fully with the opportunities provided.

"I counsel all governing boards of libraries and all librarians to make special efforts at this time to acquaint their constituents with the privileges offered.

"I believe that the experiences of this week will result in a renewed appreciation of our free public libraries to the end that they may grow in influence and that the citizens, whose property they are, may gain more satisfaction in life through increased contact with its finest things."

JOSEPH B. ELY

Local fire and police authorities are investigating two suspicious fires to which the fire department was called Thursday morning at 1.25. The first fire was in a pig pen owned by William A. G. Chief of Police George A. Dane discovered the second blaze in a garage on Dascomb road owned by Mrs. Grace Nichols of Boston. The chief noticed it while on the way to the Kidd fire. An automobile was saved from the garage.

Jim Henderson with a 48 was second.

READING—A scrappy little aggregation from Punchard high school in Andover, came down to Reading on Columbus Day to hold the Reading high eleven to a scoreless tie.

Reading had its chances to score, but the co-ordination and team spirit of the visitors, who also had a sensitive nose for a loose ball, were enough to keep the local boys at bay. The red-jerseyed crew just couldn't keep organized long enough to stage a sustained drive that would carry over the goal line.

Right after the first kickoff Channonhouse fumbled the ball and Andover recovered, but just failed to make a first down with Reading taking the ball on the 11-yard line. After an exchange of kicks DePatie gave the Reading stock a boost by ripping off a 32-yard run with clock-like interference leading the way. But the drive ended there and punts were exchanged on the Andover end of the field. Toward the end of the quarter No. 17 of Andover ripped off 27 yards and then a forward pass was good for 13 more, but here the drive stopped at the Reading 17-yard line.

In the second quarter Reading held the ball most of the time, the Andover team being satisfied to punt and keep Reading in its own territory. A forward passing attack by the local team netted no ground at all and there were some nice runs spoiled when the backs couldn't keep their feet over the slippery spots.

The second half opened badly for Reading with Ryland knocking down the kickoff, but being unable to recover it, the visitors taking the ball on Reading's 37-yard line. Andover was unable to make its downs and punted, but DePatie the Reading safety man showed a lapse of judgment when he caught the bouncing leather on his one-yard line. Another bounce would have taken it over the goal line for a touchback and safe conduct to the 20-yard line. The Readingite failed to gain an inch when he tried to run the ball out and a slight step to his left would have carried him over his own goal line where he could have been tackled for a deficit of two points. On the next play the ball was punted out to midfield. It was late in the quarter when the ball was finally worked into Andover territory.

A kicking game in the final quarter kept the Reading team away from the visitors' goal line, but at the middle of the period a long penalty helped the locals a lot by bringing the ball up to the 22-yard mark. Three plays were good for a net gain of one yard and then Channonhouse tore off 10 yards for a first down. Three smashes at the line brought no gain and then White took the ball through his left tackle and guard to within two yards of the goal line and one yard short of a first down.

Andover made one more spirited threat. After kicking from behind its own goal line the visiting team kept its eye on the ball and snapped up a Reading forward pass, putting the ball in play on the visiting 44-yard line. A long forward pass went for a good gain to the Reading 30-yard line and then the local boys intercepted a pass and started a counter aerial attack, but Andover again intercepted the ball in mid-air and started the scrimmage on the 26-yard line. A forward pass and a run had the local boys frantic until the carrier was finally dropped on the Reading 5-yard line. The local boys were saved from the necessity of making a goal line stand by the final whistle.

Struck Twice, Auto Destroyed by Fire

Three persons were injured early Monday morning in an accident in which four cars crashed, one of them later being destroyed by fire while being towed to the garage.

William Carroll, 31, of 16 Springfield street, Lawrence, Mrs. Mary Carroll, 51, same address, and John Farrell, 31, of 15 Aberdeen street, Boston were all removed to the Lawrence General hospital. Mr. Carroll had abrasions about the hips and hands, Mrs. Carroll abrasions and lacerations, and Mr. Farrell abrasions about the arm and a questionable dislocation of the elbow. Mrs. Carroll left the hospital against advice.

Peter Wisnewski, 120 Dartmouth street, Boston was arrested for driving under the influence and operating to endanger. In district court Monday morning his case was continued until this morning.

The accident happened on the Reading road when a Chrysler roadster operated by Wisnewski, crashed into a Studebaker being operated by Louis Kimball, 52 Nesmith street, Lawrence. The Studebaker was proceeding toward Lawrence and the Chrysler toward Boston. Then the Chrysler kept on going and hit a Marquette operated by Peter Rosenberg, 248 Broadway, Lawrence. It next went up an embankment about 14 feet from the roadway, uprooted two trees, snapped a wire cable fence, and came back onto the road headed toward Lawrence.

Then an Auburn sedan operated by George J. Gallant, 12 Springfield street, Lawrence, came along and hit the rear of the Studebaker. Not satisfied with being hit twice, the Studebaker caught fire while it was being towed to a garage. It was a total loss.

Ted Shawn Group to Present Dances

"The dance is a blaze of excitement; swift, furious, imaginative; a stage alive with leaping, whirling fiugres; incredibly agile. The air looks full of flying men. It is as if the frieze of the Parthenon had come to life." These words describe one of the dances to be presented by Ted Shawn at Phillips Academy on the evening of October 25.

It is an entirely new form of entertainment that Ted Shawn and his dancers will bring to Andover. Rather it is a form of art so ancient that we have forgotten its beginnings. For centuries dancing was a part of war and religion, and women were forbidden to practice it. The Greeks recognized the physical and mental importance of dancing and used it as part of the physical training of their armies. The Japanese, who have much in common with the Greeks, expressed their warlike emotions in the dance, and we all know that among the American Indians dancing was an exercise expressing religion and war, a deadly serious matter. No Indian man danced without fasting, prayer, and ceremonies of purification, and he believed that by dancing he put himself in communion with the Great Spirit.

It is Ted Shawn's idea to restore the dance to its rightful position as a thoroughly masculine art. It is, he believes, the art form for men of action, a strenuous athletics of body and mind. It is a sport, but it is a great deal more, for while exercising the body it cultivates mentality and expresses the emotions.

All critics agree as to the thoroughly masculine character of Mr. Shawn's dances, and expressions like "their squared backs and aggressive shoulders," or "a labour dance reeking of tropical sun, in splendidly muscular rhythms" appear in every review. It is only in this European-American civilization, and here only in the last two centuries, that dancing has been considered feminine.

The young men in Ted Shawn's company, several of them former college football players and wrestlers, live at a training camp isolated in the Berkshires. They live without electric lights, without telephone, without radio, and without central heating. They do their own cooking, chop their own wood, and have built their own roads and their own swimming pool. But this is in their time off. A visitor to the camp after watching their daily training in dance routine says that if a hardened football player should try it, he would soon exclaim, "Send me back to the scrimmage, coach; but don't put me through another five minutes of this just yet."

Among the dances presented by Ted Shawn's group will be:

Rhapsody (Brahms Op. 119 No. 4)
Japanese Rickshaw Coolies
Invocation to the Thunderbird
Osage-Pawnee Dance of Greeting
The French Sailor
Turkey in the Straw, as danced by a Cowboy
Flamenco (Spanish) Dances
Negro Spirituals

Ted Shawn's dancers will appear in the Meeting Room of Phillips Academy at 8.15 on Thursday, October 25. Admission for the general public will be 50c.

G.O.P. and E.R.A. Get Along Together

Most of the E.R.A. workers are not active in either political party, it was learned this week when two recent E.R.A. payrolls were checked by the Townsman with the voting check list as a result of a claim made at town meeting that you had to be "downright Democrat" to get anywhere.

Over two-thirds of the workers are either not registered voters or have no party designation, it was discovered. An examination of the payroll of September 27, the week before the meeting, showed that 61 had no party designation, 51 had not registered, 33 were declared Democrats and 19 were declared Republicans. The following week 66 were not declared, 50 not registered, 33 Democrats, and 17 Republicans. There is no telling to what party those not declared belong. They may be mostly Republican, or they may be mostly Democrat.

It is of interest to note that the September 27 payroll shows 5 Republican women workers and only one Democrat, with 11 not declared or registered. The administrative staff has one Democrat, one Republican and one not declared.

Bean Supper Tomorrow

The Square and Compass club will serve an old-fashioned baked bean supper in the club hall tomorrow night from 5.30 to 7.30.

The supper committee: Rowland L. Luce, chairman; J. Augustus Remington, Frank H. Hardy, Harry W. Wadman, George Crockett, Kellogg Boynton, W. S. Titcomb, Harold Leith, E. Burke Thornton, Henry A. Utley, Ralph E. Hadley, Leonard Johnson, Howarth Peters, William Hatch, William B. Cheever and J. Harry Playdon.

Rails Cemented

Work on cementing the rails on Andover hill is almost finished. The cement was tried out on a short stretch of the track last year, and it proved successful.

A gutter on the north side of Elm street near the center of the town has been tarred this week.

Buys Johnson Estate

Fred E. Cheever, local real estate agent, has purchased the Francis H. Johnson property at the corner of Elm street and Walnut avenue. The property consists of about 37 acres. Mr. Cheever is planning to cut it up into residential lots.

The house owned by the estate of Walter E. Piper on Cuba street has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rockwell, Jr., of North Andover. The sale was made through the Frederick E. Cheever agency.

To Revive Merchants' Committee

The old mercantile committee of the Service club will be revived at the meeting next Thursday night. All business men interested in this committee are asked to remain after the meeting.

The speaker Thursday evening will be Harold W. Kellogg, and the subject "Original Owners of America."

Injured Last Night

Helen Shtrumpfman of Argilla road received a slight injury to her leg in an automobile crash on Lowell street at Argilla road at 6:45 last night. She was riding in a car driven by Archibald H. Adamson of Danvers.

Adamson was entering Lowell street from Argilla road when a car driven by George I. Lauziere of Dracut crashed into the left front of the Adamson car.

Police investigation showed that Adamson was on the right side of the road, but that Lauziere, when he applied his brakes, had turned to the left.
